Matthew Penner, DDS

• General Dentistry

Born and raised in Monmouth County, Dr. Matthew Penner is a third-generation dentist who always wanted to follow in the footsteps of his parents and grandfather. With a strong desire to help people, he now finds it rewarding to serve the community in which he was raised.

“I could never have hoped to work in a better place than with Dr. Moskowitz,” he says. “This office has provided outstanding health care to the community for 45 years, and it is my honor to continue that legacy.”

Drs. Penner and Moskowitz enjoy building lifelong relationships with their patients. They take the time to listen to each person’s specific needs in order to provide the treatment options that best suit them.

“We do not just treat teeth,” he says. “We treat people.”

In practice for eight years, Dr. Penner considers Dr. William Moskowitz to be a mentor. Together, they perform a variety of procedures, including restorations, root canals, clear aligners, extractions, dentures, and restoring implants. The practice also offers composite injection-molded veneers, a new cosmetic procedure that few other dentists are performing. It utilizes state-of-the-art technology to generate a 3-D digital smile design that is replicated on the teeth. Compared with porcelain veneers, this technique requires less removal of tooth structure, is significantly more affordable, often does not require anesthesia, and the veneer can be repaired instead of being replaced if chipped.

Dr. Penner attended Stony Brook University School of Dental Medicine and Newark Beth Israel Medical Center’s Dental General Practice Residency Program. Along with Dr. Moskowitz, he is a contributing member of Donated Dental Service, which provides free treatment to the underprivileged.
